PAIR 'EXECUTED' RIVAL AFTER ROW

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO Turkish gangsters who executed an associate in a Tottenham flat before burying his body in Epping Forest have been jailed for life.

Yilmaz Coskun, 36, and Remzi Akguc, 41, were found guilty of murdering Hidir Aksakal, 53, who was shot four times following a row over one of the killers' girlfriends at a fish restaurant.

They were caught after CCTV captured one of the killers in a DIY shop as he practised digging the shallow grave.

The body of Mr Aksakal, also known as "Boxer Cetin", was discovered by a member of the public on September 9 last year wrapped in a tarpaulin concealed in a shallow grave in a remote part of Epping Forest, near Hollow Ponds, Whipps Cross, east London.

His legs and hands were bound tightly with blue rope and a cord had been looped around his neck.

A few yards away police found a shovel in shallow water, a jury at the Old Bailey heard.

Mr Aksakal had last been sighted three weeks earlier in the early hours of August 17 in Green Lanes, Harringay, where he had met Coskun and Akguc at a restaurant.

Police inquiries revealed that Mr Aksakal had travelled with them to the flat in Templeton Road, Tottenham, where Coskun was living at the time. There they executed him in the living room.

The court heard that later the same day, Akguc went to a builders' merchants in Stoke Newington, where he bought a shovel, a panel saw, a pickaxe handle, a tarpaulin, a blue rope, a trolley and two pairs of gloves.

Execution: Hidir Aksakal, left, was murdered by Yilmaz Coskun, middle, and Remzi Akguc, right, and his body buried in a shallow grave in Epping Forest

Some 22 hours later, Coskun and Akguc buried the body in boggy ground in Epping Forest.

However, not only had Akguc been captured on CCTV at the builders' merchants, the two men had also been captured by CCTV at a boathouse near Hollow Ponds searching for a spot to bury the body and then unloading it from a black Mercedes car in the early hours.

Police were able to trace this vehicle and subsequently carried out a search of Coskun's address, which revealed three knotted socks in the garden. One contained a gun, another ammunition and the third a silencer and more ammunition. Also in a sock was a hatchet. Tests showed that the gun was the firearm used in the murder and was also stained with the victim's blood.

A neighbour reported on August 20, 2015, that there was an "overpowering" smell of cleaning products in the block.

Coskun hired a painter and decorator to decorate his flat and replaced some flooring. A police examination of the property on September 18, 2015, found, despite the clean-up efforts, extensive bloodstains in the living room and a drip trail of blood leading from the front door of the flat down the stairs to the communal hallway.

The victim's DNA was also found in Coskun's Mercedes.

Akguc, from Clerkenwell, and Coskun, of no fixed address, were both found guilty of murder and preventing a lawful burial by a jury on Tuesday last week.

Detective Chief Inspector Jamie Piscopo, from the Homicide and Major Crime Command, said: "Hidir Aksakal's murder was a cold-blooded execution with the defendants then going to great lengths to dispose of his body. The evidence against them was overwhelming."

You can watch an online video montage of CCTV footage of Akguc buying the tools and the killers pulling up in their car at Hollow Ponds by visiting www.haringey-today.co.uk

Drug dealer jailed after police chase

A DRUG dealer who crashed a car with a suitcase full of cocaine in it into shops in Crouch End during a police chase has been jailed for 25 years.

The premises of two businesses in Park Road were wrecked, causing thousands of pounds worth of damage, when 29-year-old Tristen Asllani lost control of the car on January 25.

Nobody was injured, but shop staff had to "dive for their lives" as the car ploughed through the frontages.

Asllani, of Avenue Road, Crouch End, had been fleeing after a police surveillance operation in Avenue Road which led to the recovery of £6million worth of drugs.

Officers had seen him hand a suitcase to Arber Beqaj, 24, who then left in a taxi with Ndricim Musaj, 24.

Police stopped it and arrested the duo on suspicion of drugs offences, recovering the suitcase which contained 12kg of cocaine.

Meanwhile, police saw Asllani collect another suitcase and rucksack from an address in Avenue Road and drive away.

When officers indicated for him to stop, the car sped off - eventually crashing into the buildings in Park Road.

Asllani fled on foot, but was caught hiding near the scene of the crash. He was arrested and a further 21 kgs of cocaine recovered.

A search of his address in Avenue Road found 16.5 kgs of cannabis along with a Skorpion machine gun fitted with a silencer.

All three men were sentenced at Kingston Crown Court on Thursday. Musaj and Beqaj, both of no fixed address, were jailed for nine and eight years respectively

£450m facelift moves closer as shortlist of bidders is unveiled

A GROUNDBREAKING £450million project to build more than 1,400 new homes in Tottenham has moved a step closer after the shortlisting of six potential bidders to work with Haringey Council.

The High Road West scheme will also see the creation of new business space and a major public square and feature a rebuilt £14m White Hart Lane station to serve Tottenham Hotspur FC's new £600m stadium, work on which is scheduled to begin at the end of the 2016/17 season, as well as a park, bars, cafés, a library and a learning centre and a public area to host screenings and community events

The shortlisted companies are Barratt Developments PLC; Countryside Properties UK Limited; Lendlease Development Limited; Linkcity (Bouygues); Stanhope

PLC; and Taylor Wimpey UK Ltd. A final decision will be announced by mid-2017.

Alan Strickland, Haringey Council's cabinet member for housing, regeneration and planning, said: "This is a project which will transform Tottenham and bring more than 1,400 new homes and thousands of new jobs to the area. Developments like High Road West send a clear signal that Tottenham is London's most dynamic and important regeneration area."

"The partner we select for this major project will share our vision for a development that brings huge benefits for our residents and businesses for generations to come."

Anger as over-65s' parking discount is axed

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A DECISION to scrap a 50 per cent discount on controlled parking zone permits for over-65s has been slammed.

Enfield Council's scheme is part of proposals to raise an extra £160,000 a year which got the go-ahead despite a call-in at last week's overview and scrutiny committee.

The council also wants to introduce permit tariffs rated by size of a vehicle's engine to boost funds.

A report by the director of regeneration and environment David Morris said the gap between the income and cost of running the controlled parking zones had increased by 42 per cent between 2011 and 2015 – but the income had gone up by only 20 per cent.

The council has extended CPZs around North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, and Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, as well as in Winchmore Hill, in Wilson Street and Queens Avenue.

Mr Morris said: "The cost of permits should cover the administration and enforcement of any schemes to make the service cost neutral."

The deputy leader of the council's Conservative group in Joanne Laban said: "Ending the 50 per cent discount for the over-65s – people who have spent decades paying their council tax will raise £29,000, a relativity small amount given the council's overall budget, but one which will hit some pensioners hard."

"I am quite appalled," she added. She said the council should have listened to residents' views.

The council held a consultation in the spring and 624 residents participated, with 54 per cent against scrapping the over-65s' discount and 33 per cent in favour of the move.

Cabinet member for the environment Daniel Anderson said that consultation documents had been sent to people in the areas affected by the change.

The introduction of permit tariffs rated by engine size was opposed by six out of ten respondents. The tariffs will be reviewed annually.

School is served up a table tennis treat...as goose is nearly cooked

Getting to grips with the situation: Joe White, from the RSPCA, collects the goose before releasing back into the wild

Net gain: Headteacher Peter Travis and Broomfield School pupils

PING-PONG potty pupils at a Southgate secondary school are celebrating after being given two outdoor table tennis tables.

Broomfield School's table tennis club has had to pack up playing at times in the past when the hall is used by students sitting exams.

But the special all-weather table tennis tables will mean pupils at the school, in Wilmer Way, will be able to play all year round.

The equipment was donated by the Jack Petchey Foundation, a charity which supports young people achieve their full potential, Headteacher Peter Travis is keen to expand the after-school club and organise a coaching programme.

He also wants to set up an after-school summer table tennis league.

"Table tennis is very popular with our students," he said. "We want to get to a standard where they can enter competitions."

Broomfield currently shares sports facilities with primary schools and Mr Travis says the tables will be an "added bonus" and allow Broomfield to host future competitions.

A BEWILDERED bird nearly cooked its goose after smashing through a glass window at Broomfield School and becoming trapped overnight in a classroom.

Builders working during the summer holiday went to have a gander after discovering glass everywhere and stumbled across the frightened Canada goose.

School staff tried to coax the animal out of the upstairs room on Friday, but had to call out the RSPCA to catch it. They also made sure it had enough water during its classroom detention.

RSPCA animal collection officer Joe White was able to catch the goose and put it in a cage before releasing.

"I think it probably misjudged its flight," he said. "I have never seen an animal break glass and go through a window, and usually they fall to the floor and are concussed."

The school's business manager Carrie Bignell said it was possible the goose went straight through the window as it was bomb-proof glass.

She said: "It's fortunate people were here and noticed the smashed window as the room is disused."

Mr White said he thought the goose might have been trapped overnight in the room. Geese can go for a while without food but need water, he added. The goose did not appear to be injured.

Miss Bignell added: "It did a full day at school, but no detention even though he tried to cause a bit of vandalism."

Once released on to the school field, watched by staff, the goose started calling and within minutes two other geese flew into the field and seemed to recognise it.

Allotment couple enjoy the good life

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

HUSBAND and wife allotment holders Evelyn and Barry Craven are Enfield's equivalent of Tom and Barbara in TV's The Good Life.

Like the couple in the popular 1970s' sitcom, Evelyn and Barry are self-sufficient in growing their own fruit and vegetables – and they are spearheading a drive to get other Enfield residents to enjoy the benefits of owning their own plots.

The couple, who have a plot in Cheyne Walk, Grange Park, are helping to promote the activity as part of National Allotment Week, which started on Monday.

The couple have had their allotment, which they rent from Enfield Council, for the past 10 years.

They decided to get a plot after moving house to a flat without a garden.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, has visited the allotment and was shown around.

Evelyn said: "The allotments here are like a little community. There are people from different backgrounds, of all ages."

She praised the health benefits. "It gets you out in the fresh air and is excellent exercise," she said. "It's also great to get children involved with the planting and harvesting."

Barry speaks about the sense of achievement in home-grown food and highlighted the social benefits.

He said: "There is also a huge social element with allotment holders often working together to enhance their plots and sometimes even betting among themselves as to who can grow the best fruit and vegetables."

Allotments are available to all Enfield residents aged 18 and over. There are 3,000 allotment plots over 35 sites across the borough.

The council is encouraging residents to rent allotments as part of a new fitness campaign – MoveMoreEnfield – to promote healthy lifestyles.

That's entertainment

Up in the air: A spot of acrobatics

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

SHOPPERS watched amazed as acrobats jumped from 15-foot-tall blocks before assembling them into one giant construction and performing a daring dance routine on top of it.

The spectacular event took place at North Square in Edmonton Green Shopping Centre yesterday (Tuesday).

It was the second of three performance art routines which are being staged at the shopping mall over a three-week period.

They are being put on by the outdoor art company Circulate, with performers from NoFit Circus.

For many people in the crowd, it was the first time they had witnessed this type of performance art.

Elifnaz Sabaz, 10, of Gareth Drive, Edmonton, who watched with her mum, said: "It was really good. I liked the part when they were climbing up the blocks and when they all fell down."

"It looked like Jenga. I really want them to do it here again."

It followed on from a slapstick sketch staged at the shopping centre on Tuesday featuring two clowns trying to avoid getting dunked in a small swimming pool.

Victoria Sanderson, business development manager at Enfield Council, said: "The project from Circulate is about bringing high-quality outdoor arts to neighbourhoods who haven't experienced this type of art before."

"Edmonton Green was our first choice because the area has quite a changing population and we wanted to bring it to the square."

The last of the three planned events will be held next Tuesday with a boat-like playground where shoppers will be able to relax in hammocks.

Campaign aims to keep women safe from abuse

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW campaign to raise awareness among young women about abusive relationships was launched in Enfield yesterday (Tuesday).

Enfield Council is working with Solace Women's Aid, which runs a refuge for victims of domestic violence at a secret location in the borough, to help women recognise the warning signs and where to seek help.

Abuse takes many forms from telling partners what to wear and checking up on their mobile phone and internet use, to telling them who they can and can't talk to.

According to charity Refuge, more than 50 per cent of women aged between 18 and 21 had experienced at least one abusive incident in a relationship.

Sandjea Green, senior manager at the 21-bed residential centre at the secret location in Enfield, said it was essential to work on preventing young women becoming caught in abusive relationships and making sure they knew help was available.

On average, police across Enfield receive 20 calls a day and detain five people because of domestic violence, and the number of reported cases in the borough was rising, said Ms Green.

A group of young mothers at the refuge, who cannot be identified, described some of the abuse they had experienced.

A woman in her 20s, who met her ex-partner when she was a teenager, said: "I said to myself I will stay in this life till our child is of age, so if I have a terrible life I will sacrifice that. I was very controlled, so I could not leave the house."

Her partner criticised her clothes and objected to her speaking to other people.

She is now working to block those negative messages from her mind.

Eventually, she decided to leave and was told to be ready later the same day.

"It gave me a breathing space," she said.

"It's finding your own space and realising what he's done was nothing to do with you."

Children are also affected by the abuse and can need help with behavioural problems after witnessing what was going on.

Another young mother, who was in her early 20s when her partner became abusive, said: "I did not know what was happening until we separated. He was telling me not to wear things and I thought it was because he wanted me to be better. Now I realise."

Her ex-partner threatened to kill her and she said that abuse makes you "question yourself".

Another woman described how she was "suffering in silence".

"I did not know there was help out there," she said. "He was always putting me down and making me feel I was not good enough."

Another woman described how she had lost her job as it was not safe to stay in the area.

Women stay at the Enfield refuge for six months, or even longer, until they can get a suitable place to live.

The refuge offers services including the Iris project, which works with GP surgeries, advocacy work with children's centre to ensure youngsters affected by an abusive relationship get help and a partnership with police.

The council's cabinet member for community safety Krystle Fonyonga said: "I think it's important for them to talk to each other and keep talking and not suffer in silence."

She urged them to get help.

"It's really important for women to know they are not on their own," she added.

The refuge runs a confidential line which people who are being abused or those who are worried about a friend or relative can call for advice and support.

The free advice line is on 0808 802 5565, and at advice@solacewomensaid.org

Lack of sleep Kills! !

August is National Road Victim Month and RAC Foundation research shows that around 20% of accidents on major roads are sleep-related; such accidents are more likely to result in a fatality, or major injury.

In the summer time we all find it hard from time to time to get to sleep. Some of us find it difficult to sleep most nights. Well this will affect your ability to drive safely. So what are you doing about it?

Do you know someone who is sleeping badly - if so make them aware, lack of sleep kills!

Supermarket sweep

Ernest's mission to reduce the number of abandoned trolleys

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGNER who is fed up with seeing abandoned supermarket trolleys on the streets of Enfield says that changes to the council's reporting system have caused delays in getting them removed.

Ernest Smith has spent more than a decade reporting sightings of dumped trolleys after shoppers have finished with them.

He said: "I have seen and recorded 22,000 trolleys abandoned in the streets and have taken most of them back to the supermarket."

"I have only asked the council to remove 4,506. Until recently a short phone call to the call centre was required to get the details logged in the council system."

"If the call was made before noon, most fly-tips would be cleared that day."

But he said that Enfield Council's move away from using a call centre to on-line recording had slowed things down.

"The council is not responding enough or quickly enough," added Mr Smith, of Ladysmith Road, Enfield.

He said he had seen abandoned shopping trolleys full of rubble or even used as makeshift barbecues or for spray painting.

In 2010, the council took over the power to seize and remove abandoned shopping trolleys. It can also charge owners for the cost of removal, storage and disposing of them.

Mr Smith welcomed the move, which, he said, should make the stores "take notice".

However, the 78-year-old said that dealing with the volume of abandoned trolleys was "a drain on their resources".

The council scraps trolleys which have not been claimed within six weeks.

Shops are charged £5 a day storage, with an extra £60 administration and collection fee.

A spokesman for the council responded: "It is completely unacceptable for people to dump shopping trolleys when they have finished with them and we are working with retailers to find ways of securing them to make it harder for them to be removed from shops and retail parks."

"Enfield Connected makes it easier than ever before to report littering, fly-tipping and other street issues to the council and ensure they are removed promptly. We are constantly updating our website to make it more accessible and we will continue to do so to make sure residents can help us to keep our streets clean."

On the case: Ernest Smith has spent years telling Enfield Council where supermarket trolleys have been left in the streets

Festival of fun?: Scenes from last year's festival

State of irritation

Festival-goers bombard organisers with complaints

By Dave Speck

dave.speck@nlhnews.co.uk

SUN cream and water being confiscated by security staff were among the complaints voiced by revellers at a music festival on Saturday.

For the second year running, organisers of the 51st State Festival, in the grounds of the historic Trent Park mansion, off Cockfosters Road, have been forced to apologise over the lengths of queues at the festival, which attracted an estimated 12,500 punters.

Billed as a fusion of garage, soul, funk and dub, it boasted the likes of Soul II Soul, Roger Sanchez and David Morales "in one of north London's most stunning parks".

But hundreds of people have since taken to Facebook to voice concerns, including having to queue for more than two hours for a can of lager for £6 and being subjected to searches by security staff which were too intimate.

One woman posted on the 51st State Facebook page: "The security were appalling and it appears that they did not have the proper training in dealing with the general public, and how to conduct searches without people feeling violated."

"And what is this about confiscating sun cream? That is another major health and safety issue in itself. Someone could have lost their life from heat exhaustion and dehydration. How would you have felt then?"

Another woman stated: "Shocking!! Really can you say you learnt from last year ??? I don't think so as you promised so much from your learnings then and still got it wrong!!"

Other concerns were that revellers had to queue up twice for drinks – firstly in a queue to buy tokens for drinks and then in the actual queue for drinks.

Meanwhile, Enfield police said they arrested five men at the festival who were carrying knives.

Organisers denied that sun cream had been confiscated, but said "a few aerosol cans of self-tanning lotion" had been taken under rules banning pressurised canisters.

They admitted confiscating bottles of water on entry to the site under "a condition of licensing because water can be used as an agent to transport illegal substances", but said water was given out for free at every arena on site.

In a statement on their Facebook page, organisers of the festival told revellers that they were compiling a list of comments and would be reviewing procedures.

A spokesman said: "We are a team of people who genuinely care about your experience and we are disappointed that we were unable to satisfactorily resolve the problems with the token queues and other frustrations so many of you have expressed."

Other concerns were over litter and sound quality from the main stage. However, there were positive comments on Facebook about the DJs and music at the festival.

One man stated: "The surroundings were fantastic, the tented music areas were very good, and there was great sound and lighting and the line-up was second to none."

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle."

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

OUR system is broken. The Brexit vote had little to do with our relations with the EU – it was a cry of rage from the disenfranchised and unlistened-to.

We have a government intent on selling off – or giving away – our assets to the big corporations while the “opposition” tears itself apart because their MPs don’t want to oppose the giveaway.

What’s at the root of all this? Two things: the electoral system and money.

The current system means that a few thousand floating voters in marginal seats decide elections while most of us might as well stay at home.

In safe seats, the MP is essentially elected by a committee of his or her local party.

Meanwhile, a few major donors give the Tories a huge financial advantage. The other parties (except the Greens) also have their donors.

Why should a small number of the super-rich have such an influence on elections and what do they get out of it? Only the terminally naïve would believe that such donations are altruistic.

We need a constitutional conference to sort out a fair voting system and an elected second chamber, and to put limits on political donations.

One idea being floated is an alliance of Labour, the Greens, Lib Dems and SNP to kick out the Tories, call such a conference and implement its findings, then dissolve the alliance and call new elections. It’s going to take a lot of work and trust, but it’s our only hope.

Pavements are intended for use by pedestrians

THE banner headline, “Traders hit the roof at ban on street displays” (Advertiser, July 27) makes for good reading.

It’s high time the council took action on traders encroaching on the pavement, which is meant for the general public.

Their argument is that they have been there for well over 30 years and some of their customers said it had made the character of the place “more villagey”, but I would like to remind them that the population has also increased as a result of the influx from our European neighbours and other parts of the world.

That being the case, it is the council’s duty to ensure that the pavement is kept clear and enable free movement for wheelchair users, blind people, mothers with pushchairs and their babies and not to forget the senior citizens.

They all pay their council tax and one of the things the tax is used for is the pavement.

The council must not bow to pressure from these traders.

Not everything in life is suitable for a selfie

I ENJOY watching ITV’s Good Morning Britain in the morning. It is a show with a good balance of political news with the odd fluff piece.

Despite the inclusion of celebrity gossip nonsense, the show is far more digestible in the morning than the more serious (and depressing) BBC or Sky News.

Last Friday, GMB ran a story about a pregnant woman giving birth to her baby in under a minute in the entrance of a hospital.

The scene, caught on CCTV showed the lady waddling in through the entrance of the hospital and then – clearly in some distress – pulling down her pyjama bottoms and delivering a baby herself there and then.

This is an incredible story. The problem is, this is the age of the internet where all manner of incredible things are on film.

On YouTube you can view motorcyclists being hit by cars that launch them into somersaults and then land on their feet unharmed.

You can watch Saddam Hussein being hung and Gaddafi being lynched online for heaven’s sake.

So, when I see GMB running a promo for a baby born on a hospital welcome mat, I am like – yea, whatever.

I am not sure it should be that way. But what if you actually stumbled upon that situation in reality and not just on the internet?

I am afraid I would almost certainly be very British about it and carry on about my day, soothing myself by sending the poor lady in question positive thoughts.

This is not because I am uncaring person – I am simply allergic to the sound of babies crying. In today’s climate I worry that most people’s first reaction would be to get a quick selfie, giving a thumbs-up to camera while a woman suffers the agony of childbirth in the background, and then uploading it to their Facebook.

If you don’t need your Oyster card then claim your cash back

DO you have an Oyster card you haven’t used for months, or perhaps even years?

If so, you are not alone. In fact, there are millions of Oyster cards that haven’t been used over the last year.

Yet, most people have paid a deposit for their Oyster card as well as having some credit left on them.

Recently, I revealed that Transport for London has now accumulated over £223million due to the deposits and credit sitting on these dormant Oyster cards.

With the advent of contactless payment, which offers the same fares as Oyster Pay As You Go, some people are finding that the reasons they might once have kept hold of a spare Oyster card no longer applies.

So, if you really don’t think you have a need any longer for your Oyster card, you should be aware that you are entitled to a full refund from Tube station ticket machines or by contacting TfL’s customer services team on 0343 2221234.

It is, after all, your money that TfL is holding.

If you want to claim it back, you have every right to do so.

Time for some transparency

I ALSO attend Southgate ward forum meetings and Tricia Web (“Ward councillors take concerns on board at regular meetings”, Advertiser, August 3) may unknowingly be sick of the sound of my voice at them.

She is right to say that the library relocation was mentioned some months ago at one of these meetings.

However, no mention was made of substantial downsizing, or the need for a library card to gain admittance, because our ward councillors had not been made aware of it by the council, so there was no obvious cause for concern, with some even feeling it might be beneficial.

The downside only became apparent to our councillors just before the most recent ward forum meeting. The temporary closure notices appeared the day after the forum.

The council needs to be franker about what it is proposing. If it is not open, it engenders suspicion about what else it might be planning on libraries – or about anything – and that is not a healthy situation for anybody.

Your input is to be welcomed

IT was lovely to read how pleased Tricia Web was with her experience of her local ward forum.

Every ward in Enfield holds ward forum meetings four times a year.

In Winchmore Hill we have regular reports from the police and presentations by council officers and other service providers on issues that concern our residents as well as time to discuss local matters so that councillors can understand and act on issues of concern.

In addition, most councillors hold regular ward surgeries where residents can drop in without an appointment to tell us their concerns so that we can, when appropriate, give support and take action.

I hope this correspondence will encourage as many people as possible to get involved. The details of ward forums and ward surgeries are available on the council website or by writing to a local ward councillor at the civic centre.

Heist conviction appeal rejected

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Enfield plumber who was convicted for his part in concealing goods after the £14million Hatton Garden jewel heist has had a High Court appeal against his conviction turned down.

A Court of Appeal judge rejected his application to appeal against his 21-month prison sentence, which was suspended for two years.

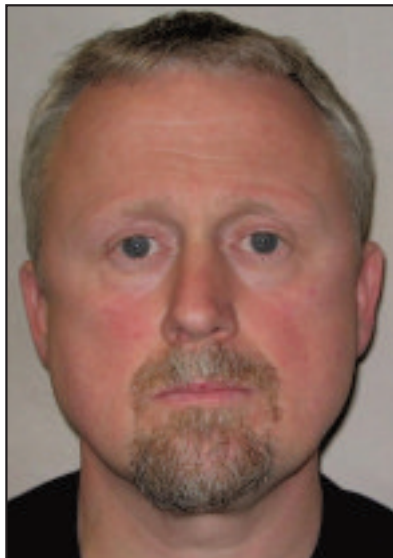

The application was refused on July 22 and the self-employed entrepreneur, of Riverside Gardens, Enfield, has now made another application for his appeal to be considered by a panel of three judges.

The 49-year-old, who runs a heating and plumbing company in Enfield, was convicted by a jury at Woolwich Crown Court of concealing, converting or transferring criminal property following a trial which lasted for three months.

His co-defendant Carl Wood, 59, of Elderbeck Close, Cheshunt, who was sentenced to six years after he was found guilty of conspiracy to commit burglary and conspiracy to conceal, convert or transfer criminal property, has also had his application to appeal turned down.

William Lincoln, 61, from Bethnal Green, east London, has also been told his application to appeal against a seven-year sentence for conspiracy to commit burglary and conspiracy to conceal, convert or transfer criminal property turned down.

The applications were considered by a single judge – but they all have a right for an appeal bid to be looked at by three judges sitting in the Court of Appeal.

Appeal bid rejected: Hugh Doyle

Two other Enfield men – Terry Perkins, 68, of Heene Road, and Danny Jones, 59, of Park Avenue, Bush Hill Park – are currently serving seven years for their roles in the multi-million-pound break-in at the Hatton Garden Safe Deposit company over the Easter weekend in 2015.

Guard of honour: London Fire Brigade paid special tribute at Maisie Bess Spooner's funeral at Enfield Crematorium

Fire brigade says farewell to Maisie the canteen cook

By Priya Kingsley-Adam
priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN who had once been a canteen cook at Edmonton fire station was remembered at a ceremonial funeral last week.

Maisie Bess Spooner, 99, had spent a number of years in the late 1970s serving the fire crews at the station in Church Street their favourite dishes. But the special honour accorded her on Wednesday was also in recognition of her wartime activity as a volunteer firefighter with the Auxiliary Fire Service and the many years she spent working for the London Fire Brigade as a call handler answering emergency 999 calls.

Firefighters formed a guard of honour at Enfield Crematorium. The funeral cortege also included three fire engines.

Maisie, also nicknamed, Big C, or Mitzi, by friends and family, retired as a cook at Edmonton fire station in 1978. She lived in Cheshunt.

She joined the Auxiliary Fire Service at the age of 22 in a bid to do her bit at the start of World War II in 1939.

Over the years, she shared stories with crews of times during the Blitz – hurtling across London in a fire engine – while bombs landed around her.

Soon after the end of the war, she became a fire service call handler. She also drove a canteen wagon and provided meals to crew at the scenes of accidents and training exercises. The capital's most senior woman firefighter, London Fire Brigade's director of safety and assurance Dany Cotton, paid tribute to the 99-year-old.

She said: "We owe a huge debt of gratitude to our wartime women firefighters, like Maisie, who did so much to protect the nation, but also helped pave the way for the women firefighters working today across the country."

"London Fire Brigade are celebrating their 150th anniversary, remembering those devoted to the fire service. We must never forget the dedication of firefighters past and present and it was great for us to be able to give her a guard of honour she so richly deserved."

'I honestly thought the pain I was causing took away the pain inside'

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A YOUNG woman who struggled to cope with her feelings after her brother was killed in an arson attack has called for more support for young people suffering mental health problems.

Katie Mullins was just 12 when her brother and another man died after the attack on a block of flats. Another brother was seriously injured in the incident.

The Enfield Island Village resident witnessed the impact of the tragedy and its aftermath on her family.

She tried to keep the family together, while coping with her own feelings of loss.

She recalled: "I did not know how to process my grief when I was 12."

When she was 16, she started self-harming.

"It was just a coping mechanism," she explained. "I honestly thought that the pain I was causing took away the pain inside."

It was not until she was 22 that she was finally diagnosed with depression.

Since then she has got help to learn to deal with her feelings following her family's bereavement.

Ms Mullins, who works in retail, said: "I think mental health research is really important and something we have needed more of for a long time – to me it means hope."

"It's particularly important for young people as people just don't seem able to accept or understand why children have mental health problems."

She is backing mental health charity MQ: Transforming Mental Health for more funding into research into young people's mental health issues.

"If I can use my experience to help someone else, then something will have come out of it," she said.

Her call comes as the charity revealed that two thirds of parents feared that a child would never recover from a mental illness.

However, 84 per cent of adults said that more should be done to tackle mental health.

Ms Mullins said things were so tough when her brother died and added: "I don't know what would have helped."

She said that there should be a resource listing signs that parents could look out for to help children who might be at risk of mental health problems.

She added: "I know that everyone reacts differently to trauma."

"People should try talking to their child and if that does not help they should then talk to the doctor."

Happier times: Katie looks at pictures of her brother in his football kit and of them together at their mum's wedding

Trauma: Katie Mullins started self-harming in the aftermath of the tragedy

UK CYPRIOTS AND BRITISH PARLIAMENTARIANS RALLY IN SUPPORT OF CYPRUS

- British Cypriots, once again demonstrated in great numbers at the annual "Rally for Cyprus" in central London on 16th July calling upon Turkey to end the 42-year long illegal military occupation of the northern part of the island so that Cyprus can once again be reunited.
- The Rally was preceded by a letter of protest to the Turkish Ambassador in London, delivered by the President, Christos Karaolis and Officers of the National Federation. The resolution emphasises that "Turkey must now change its intransigent stance on Cyprus and respond with positive actions to encourage progress in the direct negotiations taking place on the island towards a just and lasting settlement".
- Following the Rally, a Federation delegation including the Rt. Hon. Theresa Villiers MP, laid a wreath spelling CYPRUS at the Cenotaph and a petition was also delivered to 10 Downing Street, in which the National Federation's president, Christos Karaolis called upon Prime Minister Theresa May to ensure "that the Cyprus issue is kept high on the political agenda of the UK" and reminded the PM that she has "the power to make a lasting difference in relation to Cyprus and now is the time to exercise this proactively and constructively".
- Also at the Rally were The Cyprus High Commissioner H.E. Euripides Evriviades, the Greek Ambassador Konstantinos Bikas, GLA Member Andrew Dismore, Cypriot MP Takis Hadjigeorgiou and the Mayor of the occupied town of Lapithos, Neoptolemos Kotsapas.
- Politicians from across the UK's political spectrum also reiterated their support for a reunited Cyprus at a meeting held in the House of Commons on 12th July. This included the Minister for Europe, the Rt.Hon. David Lidington, MPs of Barnet, Enfield and Haringey, Mike Freer, Theresa Villiers, David Burrowes, Kate Osamor, Catherine West. These MPs were joined by other Parliamentarians Sir Roger Gale, Sir Alan Meale, Sheryl Murray, Caroline Nokes, Sir David Amess, Mark Pritchard, Diana Johnson and Lord Hylton.
- The meeting in the House of Commons was preceded by a picket in support of the Organisation of Families of Missing Cypriots UK.
- These events were organised by the National Federation of Cypriots in the UK.

The summertime blues

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

SENSATIONAL live music and a dazzling lakeside park location – where better to spend Sunday afternoons than at the annual Bloomfield Blues Festival.

A treat for fans of soulful rhythm and blues, the series of free Sunday concerts by top blues performers and bands is being held throughout August at Broomfield Park, in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green.

Staged by the Friends of Broomfield Park and the London Vintage Blues Association, which runs St Harmonica's Blues Club in St Monica's parish centre, Cannon Hill, Southgate, the spectacular event has become a popular fixture in the borough's festival calendar.

Now in its fifth year, it kicked off last weekend with the first two of seven concerts and this Sunday two more top bands will perform on the park's half-timbered bandstand. Featured are two of London's finest, guitar-driven bands playing funky blues and southern blues rock.

The Sam Kelly Band has great pedigree in blues in the capital and beyond. The accomplished trio are led by Sam – one off the best drummers on the blues circuit – and play funky blues with style and humour.

Still got the blues: Sam Kelly, of The Sam Kelly Band, and, top, Blues Chapter

Appearing with them are Blues Chapter, one of the finest young blues bands around. Their repertoire has shades of Gary Moore, Stevie Ray Vaughan and Joe Bonamassa.

Both acts are preceded by an hour-long open mic session for up-and-coming and established bands and artists, from 1.30pm to 2.30pm.

"Blues is experiencing something of a mini-revival at the moment and it's been a major influence on other genres of music," said joint festival organiser Dave Thomas, of St Harmonica's Blues Club.

"The festival is fantastic, not only for die-hard blues fans, but also as a great introduction to the music for the uninitiated.

"There is also a licensed bar, ice creams and tea, coffee and cake stalls. What better way to spend a pleasurable Sunday in the summertime."

Dragon adds fire to remake

PETE'S DRAGON (PG, 103 mins)

DO you believe in dragons? You certainly will by the conclusion of David Lowery's charming fantasy adventure, which reworks the beloved 1977 Disney musical of the same name as a rip-roaring story of devotion between an orphaned boy and his mythical protector. State-of-the-art special effects magically bring to life the titular behemoth – a gargantuan fluffy green beast, whose inquisitive and playful demeanour suggests it might be the love child of Sulley from Monsters, Inc and Falkor the luckdragon in The Neverending Story.

Lowery's film possesses a similar sense of wonder as those two family favourites, underscored with life lessons about the self-sacrifice that springs naturally from an enduring friendship.

The lean script, co-written by the director and Toby Halbrooks, is punctuated with thrilling action sequences and doesn't saturate the screen with mawkish sentimentality.

In fact, the film delivers a hammer blow of heartbreaking emotion in the sombre opening sequence to rival Bambi and Up. Very young children may need a comforting snuggle as life and death skip hand-in-hand in these beautifully crafted frames.

A little boy called Pete (Levi Alexander) is orphaned in a road accident and left to fend for himself in the forest that buffers the community of Millhaven.

The helpless and tearful child is rescued from a pack of hungry wolves by a green dragon, which the boy names Elliott after a character in his picture book. For six years, Pete (played by Oakes Fegley) and Elliott grow up side-by-side beneath the forest's lush canopy until a logging operation led by lumber mill owner Jack Meacham (Wes Bentley) and his brother Gavin (Karl Urban) disturbs the peace.

Dragon's tale: Natalie (Oona Laurence), Grace (Bryce Dallas Howard) and Jack (Wes Bentley)

Jack's wife Grace (Bryce Dallas Howard), who is a forest ranger, discovers Pete living wild and spirits him back to civilisation.

The orphan bonds with her daughter Natalie (Oona Laurence) and father (Robert Redford), who claims to have seen a dragon many years ago. Grace has always rejected the old man's outlandish tale.

"Just because you can't see something doesn't mean it's not there," he reminds her. However, the ranger cannot believe in the existence of mythical beasts, even when Pete draws a crayon picture of his best friend.

"I know those woods like the back of my hand," Grace tells her husband Jack. "I couldn't have missed a dragon."

Pete's Dragon casts a heady spell by combining solid, old-fashioned storytelling with dazzling visuals. The bond between boy and beast is lovingly sketched in the opening 30 minutes, so when they are separated, every fibre of our being roots for a rousing reunion.

Digital trickery melds seamlessly with live action and terrific performances from the human cast are anchored by relative newcomer Fegley, whose expressive eyes reflect his pint-sized hero's aching loss.

Do you believe in dragons? I do.

Set in 12 acres of scenic grounds close to the area's extensive green open space, Saffron Court is also located just minutes away from Cockfosters station on the Piccadilly Line, offering quick connections to the centre of London for work or leisure. This means that the new apartments at Saffron Court offer residents the perfect blend of town and countryside living and, with yields of around 4.5 per cent, are attractive to owner-occupiers and investors alike.

Apartments at Saffron Court start from just £360,000, also making them ideal for first-time buyers who want to get a foot on the London property ladder. The homes feature a modern, open-plan kitchen and living area with a spacious private balcony overlooking the landscaped grounds and onsite lake.

Meanwhile, residents are just a few minutes' walk from the 413-acre Trent Park, perfect for walking, cycling and jogging. Also nearby is the family-friendly Oak Hill Park (complete with an independent café, play area and mini-golf course), as well as Hadley Common. Saffron Court is also close to a thriving centre, featuring independent shops, pubs, and the popular Chickenshed theatre.

Cathy Lloyd, L&Q's Sales and Marketing Director, said: "Saffron Court offers first-time buyers an ideal option to start out on the housing ladder without having to leave London. At the same time, the excellent rental yields mean that the apartments on offer are perfect for investors as well. The rapid connections to the rest of London allow residents to easily access the capital's employment, retail and transport hubs. However, the area still retains a charming countryside feeling, which allows buyers to find an affordable home that offers a quiet retreat from city life."

Prices at Saffron Court start at £360,000 for a one-bedroom apartment with generous outdoor space. Bolingbroke Park's Sales and Marketing Suite is located at Chase Side, Cockfosters EN4 8HT. For more information or to book an appointment visit www.bolingbrokepark.co.uk or call 0333 0033 637.

SVR could be just your type

By Matt Joy

THE F-Type should definitely be on your radar by now. First launched in 2014 and revised just last year, it is the Porsche-worshipping coupe and roadster that gave Jaguar a true successor to the E-Type, as well as a halo effect on the rest of the range. Now the SVO department has turned its attentions to it to create the F-Type SVR.

The changes are detailed and wide-ranging, with more power and torque from the 5.0-litre V8 engine, reduced drag and increased downforce thanks to the new rear wing, diffuser and front valance.

You can have an F-Type SVR in Roadster or Coupe form, just like the R version it's based on, and arguably it is the latter that's the better-looking of the two. The exterior changes certainly add aggression to what was an elegant and pretty shape and you're left in no doubt that the SVR means business. Pick of the colour chart is the sharp blue shade that shows off the strong lines to best effect.

The F-Type and Jaguars in general have come a long way in the image stakes in just a few years thanks to an expanded range and exciting designs and SVR as a sub-brand now has a second model to boost its recognition. The F-Type SVR is the fastest series production Jaguar ever and can crack 200mph – that's a potent image to project.

There's no loss of cabin space in the SVR transformation, but it remains a strict two-seater with an intimate, rather than spacious, cabin. Even so, six-footers can be comfortably accommodated in the supportive sports seats, the glovebox and storage bins will swallow plenty of oddments and the boot on the Coupe is big enough for a medium suitcase, as well as some smaller bags, too. The Roadster's boot is inevitably smaller, but space is freed up by opting for the tyre repair kit over a spare and putting the roof down doesn't impact on boot space.

The tweaks beneath the skin are significant to the point where Jaguar developed a new suspension knuckle to improve the response, as well as bespoke tyres with Pirelli just for this car.

In normal driving, the first thing you notice is that it rides surprisingly well. Even this most extreme car in the range retains this familiar Jaguar quality and it's clearly designed to be used every day. It's even relatively quiet in the standard driving mode.

But the SVR is best enjoyed when driven with a little more aggression. Switch into Dynamic mode and the most notable difference is the firmed-up suspension, although the driver can tweak the individual settings for the steering, engine and gearbox.

The engine dominates the experience, crackling and rasping with even more volume than the already loud R Coupe and pushing the SVR hard above 100mph. With the freedom of the track to explore its full potential, the SVR remains pleasingly rear-drive in its balance.

You can feel the front wheels helping out occasionally, but this is a car that can be sideways into, through and on the exit of a bend, if you so wish. To call it fun would be a gross understatement.

In Coupe form the SVR checks in at £110,000, with another £5k required for the Roadster. That makes it almost £20,000 more than the R model, but for that you get the extra power and torque, the exterior changes, including the aero upgrades and unique alloy wheels, the bespoke suspension upgrades, the 25kg weight loss, including the lightweight exhaust, and some interior fillips. That seems like good value.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisements offering goods or services of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisements', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisements must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'OT' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republishing or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (i) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (ii) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 8% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belongs to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.
Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Capital Media Newspapers Ltd or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

One return every retailer will welcome

We recently commissioned the effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking to analyse what happens when a company includes press advertising in their media mix.

They examined over 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period.

In the retail sector they analysed results from supermarkets, department stores and high street chains.

And they found that adding newspapers dramatically boosts other media, increasing the overall effectiveness of the entire campaign, by up to 2.8 times.

In an industry where a few percentage points are often seized on as a signal of runaway success or imminent disaster, this is a truly remarkable return on investment.

And as the table here shows, retail is far from the only category where newspapers deliver outstanding results.

ALLI RARING TO GO

Exciting times: Dele Alli is eagerly anticipating Saturday's start of the new Premier League season

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

DELE ALLI is eagerly anticipating the start of the new Premier League season as Tottenham Hotspur prepare to launch their campaign this weekend.

Spurs were genuine challengers for the title for much of last season before fading away badly in the closing stages, but still managed to seal a third-placed finish to secure automatic qualification for the Champions League for the first time.

And it will be a largely familiar squad that heads up to Everton for Saturday's league opener, with Spurs having been able to keep hold of all their key players – while bolstering their ranks by bringing in midfielder Victor Wanyama from Southampton and striker Vincent Janssen from Dutch outfit AZ Alkmaar.

Spurs have endured mixed fortunes during pre-season as they lost to both Juventus and Atletico Madrid during their tour to Australia, but they bounced back from these defeats in fine style by recording a stunning 6-1 win over Italian giants Inter Milan in Oslo on Friday afternoon.

Midfielder Alli, making his first appearance of pre-season following his involvement in Euro 2016, was among Tottenham's scorers in the match, and he believes that the result will give everyone at the club a lift.

"We're delighted with the win and it was important to get that for confidence ahead of the new season," he said. "It was a great performance by the team and just what we needed."

"I felt a bit rusty to be honest, but it was good to get the cobwebs off and get some minutes. We're ready and raring to go now for the first game against Everton."

"After this performance we are going to be raring for the first whistle to go. It's important to get a win on the first day of the season. We're all excited, and I'm sure the mood will be good."

Harry Kane put his disappointing Euro 2016 behind him by scoring twice against Inter, while Erik Lamela, Janssen and youngster Shayon Harrison also got on the scoresheet.

"Vincent is a great player and he showed what he's got to offer," Alli added. "He scored a goal, and for mine I just played it to him, he laid it off and I put it in the back of the net."

"I'm also pleased for Harry. You know what you're going to get with him. You know he's going to score goals whoever he plays against. It was two great finishes from him, and I'm sure he'll be delighted."

North Middlesex climb up into second

A SUPERB century from Mitchell Murray helped North Middlesex to claim a 105-run win at Southgate on Saturday and climb into second place in the Premier Division of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

The hosts went into the match lying top of the table, and they put North Middlesex under early pressure as the visitors slumped to 45-4 batting first.

But Murray came to their rescue with a brilliant innings of 105 which enabled them to get up to a final total of 222-9.

Southgate were soon in trouble in their reply as they slipped to 18-3 and they never really recovered from this as the visitors continued to strike at regular intervals.

Tom Nicoll (3-20), Ed Bird (2-24), Connor Nurse (2-26) and Joel Hughes (2-45) all impressed with the ball as the hosts were dismissed for 117 – enabling North Middlesex to leapfrog over them in the table and leave them just six points adrift of new leaders Teddington.

Meanwhile, Hornsey suffered a setback to their hopes of securing promotion from Division Two as they had to make do with a winning draw at basement side Wembley to slip to fourth place in the table.

Sean Solia top-scored with 60 as Hornsey amassed 186 despite some good bowling from Junaid Azar 6-75.

A dramatic finish saw both teams come close to securing victory, but neither side was quite able to go on and claim maximum points as Wembley closed on 181-8.

Elsewhere in the second division, Highgate remain one place above the relegation zone after losing by 56 runs at promotion-chasing Barnes.

Craig Gourlay (7-85) bowled well as Barnes were dismissed for 222, but it was not enough as Alex Scott (6-19) ripped through the visitors' batting and they fell well short of their target – finishing on 166 all out.

There was also disappointment for North London, who lost by 67 runs at home to MTSSC in Division Three.

Rifas Hameed (59) and Ashok Andrews (47 not out) were the main contributors as the visitors amassed 245, and North London could only reach 178 in reply despite 85 from Hussain Shabbir. Kavithasan Kannathasan took 4-26.

Relegation misery for female athletes

ENFIELD AND HARINGEY Athletic Club suffered the disappointment of being relegated from the Premier Division of the United Kingdom Women's League after enduring another difficult day in the final meeting of the season at Allianz Park on Saturday.

The squad have struggled to make their mark throughout the campaign, and this was again the case over the weekend – with the club's only victory coming in the 4x400metres relay, where Lina Nielsen, Mary Iheke, Akasha Smith and Laviai Nielsen joined forces to win in 3minutes 41.28seconds.

Iheke also secured the best individual result on the track as she finished runner-up in the A-string 400m (53.22secs). Kike Onwinde came second in the A-string javelin (45.08m), while Lina Nielsen was third in the A-string 200m (53.22secs).

Meanwhile, the senior men's team at the club brought their Division One campaign to a close by finishing sixth at Basingstoke on Saturday.

Patrick Kari Kari won both the B-string 100m (11.00secs) and the A-string 200m (21.97secs), while there were further victories from Ben Snaith in the B-string 200m (21.60secs), Khai Riley-Laborde in the A-string 110m hurdles (14.06secs) and George Vaughan in the B-string 110m hurdles (15.53secs).

Frederick Finke was runner-up in the B-string pole vault (4.40m), a result matched by Paul Neale in the B-string high jump (1.90m), Snaith in the A-string 100m (10.85secs), Alex Milne in the A-string 3,000m steeplechase (9mins 27.82secs) and Paulos Surafel in the A-string 3,000m (8mins 27.08secs).

There were third-placed finishes from Rhys Searles in the A-string pole vault (4.60m), William Grimsey in the A-string high jump (2.05m) and Michael Christoforou in the B-string 3,000m (9mins 0.02secs).
